THE TOPAZ

Every precious stone has its own legend—good or evil, as the case may be—and from it the stone derives a sentimental value quite apart from its intrinsic worth. The topaz is associated with a quaint bit of old Roman lore which explains why it is called the stone of gratitude.

The blind emperor Theodosius had caused a brazen gong to be placed before his palace gates, where those who wished his help and advice might come and sound it, and so gain entrance to the royal presence. One day a great snake crept up to the gate and struck the gong with her coils. Theodosius gave orders that no one should molest her, but that she should approach and make known her wish. The snake bent her crest in homage and told her grievance. Her nest, which was at the base of the gateway tower, had been invaded while she was absent in search of food, her nestlings killed and herself repulsed by the strange beast covered with sharp needles which now held possession of it. Would Caesar grant her justice? The emperor gave orders to have the porcupine slain, and the mother was restored to her desolate home. By nightfall the incident was forgotten by the people. The serpent had a better memory. At dawn she glided into the palace, through the spacious apartments, up stairways and through corridors until she gained the royal chamber. On the closed eyelids of the sleeping emperor she laid a gleaming topaz, and when he awoke he was no longer blind. The mother-snake had paid her debt of gratitude.

OLD DOMINION IS MARKET FEATURE

Metal Slightly off on Exchange, But Is Simply a Speculative Quotation—Railroads Considered Good Buys—Old Dominion Holds Strong.

(By L. N. Kinsey)
GLOBE, April 2.—Walker Brothers say: The market today at opening was influenced by the failure of London market, after three days holiday, to come up to level of our closing prices yesterday. Opening was at recession of half to one per cent and several points in Canadian Pacific. Buying orders, however, quickly came in and under lead of copper market rallied sharply. Atchison was particularly strong throughout the day on persistent rumors that dividend rate would be increased tomorrow. The market had one or two sharp movements and towards the close there was good buying of Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred, which had a stimulating effect on the list. The whole market closed strong.

Dee says: Old Dominion looks dirt cheap to me.

John D. Ryan of Amalgamated says prospects for copper trade have never been so good as today. President Roosevelt says his attitude towards railroads has undergone no change. Banks gained less from interior in past quarter than any time for corresponding quarter for past five years.

Boston market opened weaker, but after first hour good buying appeared and tone was firm right up to the close. Copper was slightly off on the metal exchange, but this is simply a speculative quotation and not taken seriously by trade. We look for continued improvement in the market and advise buying the better class of stocks.

Superior & Boston was in good demand again today, bids of $2.87 failing to bring any out. Globe Consolidated was also stronger, closing at $13 bid.

Money, 3 per cent.

(By H. H. Bru Co.)
GLOBE, April 2.—Just as has been predicted, stocks are steadily rising this week, and with the easy money rates in New York and Boston, I see no reason why this rise should not continue.

There is a large short interest outstanding still, but as the turn is a bullish one, I see no reason why we should not carry the market upwards. With this in sight, I would advise the buying of all good stocks on every reaction of the market from now on, and buy them in a judicious manner and stay with them on the breaks. In thirty or sixty days these investments are bound to show a good profit.

There has been very free buying in all stocks the last two days.

ARIZONA COMMERCIAL
IN SPLENDID CONDITION
The Boston News Bureau says: Arizona Commercial shares are selling at $21. This compares with $52, the highest price at which they ever sold. The decline from the high point has been in the face of steadily improving conditions in every department of the company's work, and net earnings this month should be close to $50,000.

Up to March 29 the company had shipped from the Copper Hill mine 3,314 tons of ore, of which 2,122 tons were sulphides running as high as $22 per ton (net to the company) although the average is somewhere between $10 and $12 per ton. Shipments of this ore are being made to the Copper Queen, Calumet & Arizona, Old Dominion and Shannon smelters.

Last year the ore shipped netted the company $7.40 per ton on the basis of a 15 to 16 cent copper market. The ore contained from 4 to 6 per cent copper.

The new railroad is 97 per cent completed, and shipments from the Black Hawk property should begin almost immediately.

The outlook for the Arizona Commercial property is one of steadily increasing ore shipments, increasing earnings and lower costs, all of which naturally contribute to greatly improved results for the shareholders.

With the new 10,000 shares of stock paid for, the company will have $250,000 cash in its treasury, no debts and an earning power of $5 per share so long as ore shipments are at the rate of only 4,000 tons per month. Earnings will naturally increase from this figure as ore shipments are increased.

The Paine and Amster interests, who own in the neighborhood of 30,000 shares of stock, have not sold a share of their holdings and are more enthusiastic regarding the future than at any previous time.
